

EU Commissioners

Thursday, 14 February 2008

For some time we have monitored the online visibility of EU Commissioners. The aim is to look the relationship between certain policy areas, the Commissioner in charge and how that can be addressed to specific events people in the blogosphere care about. Looking in detail at these findings could well be a usefull exercise for the European Commission and those in charge of particular policy areas.