

Fitna boosts Wilders online visibility

Saturday, 05 April 2008

As was expected, the release of Geert Wilders' 16 minute movie Fitna on 28 March has dramatically increased his visibility, inside and outside The Netherlands. We won't go into a debate on the quality or the justifications of this movie, but show you the impact the movie has on the social media we are tracking.

All our sources show a doubling at least of the visibility of Mr Wilders, some even report triple or sixfold attention given. Not just YouTube where the movie can be viewed, but also the MSN web, AttentioBlog, Fora and newsgroups show similar explosions, as the following graphs show (click image to enlarge).
